

Test for credit

You must answer all 10 questions correctly to receive 1 hour continuing education. Choose the best answer.

Personal Information (required)

NAME:

EMS#:

E-Mail

Emergency Medical Services - Continuing Education - Test

1. The primary pulmonary abnormality in patients with an asthma or COPD attack is;

2. The primary pulmonary abnormality involved in congestive heart failure is;

3. CPAP works primarily by;

4. CPAP should be discontinued if;

5. The most important benefit of the use of pre-hospital CPAP in patients with respiratory distress is

6. According to protocol, vital signs for patients on CPAP should be recorded;

7. Before applying the CPAP to a patient it is vital to;

8. Higher CPAP pressures can result in all the following except;

9. CPAP is most appropriate for;

10. Patient on CPAP becomes unresponsive. Which of the following steps should be taken?