An improvement permit shall include:

1. For permits that are valid without expiration, a recorded plat or, for permits that are valid for five years, a site plan.
2. A description of the facility the proposed site is to serve.
3. The proposed wastewater system and its location.

The Construction Authorization shall contain conditions regarding system type, system layout, location, and installation requirements. It shall be the legal responsibility of the property owner to ensure that a valid Authorization for Construction is issued prior to the construction or repair of a septic system and the construction, location, or relocation of a residence, place of business, or place of public assembly.

Private Drinking Water Well (PDWW)

A private drinking water well as defined in G.S. 87-85 (10a)

Repair Permit PDWW

According to 15A NCAC 02C .0302 the definition of a “repair” is work involved in deepening, reaming, sealing, installing or changing casing depths, perforating, screening, or cleaning, acidizing or redevelopment of a well excavation, or any other work which results in breaking or opening the well seal. This definition is supported by the NC Division of Environmental Health (DEH) whose comments at a recent meeting included that deepening or hydrofracturing the well are considered repairs. However, though the definition of a “repair” is very clear it does not differentiate the amount of work involved in actually permitting these activities and therefore should not be used in determining fee structure. Fee structure is determined by the actual direct and indirect costs involved in conducting an activity.

Note: These repair activities require an application by the owner/agent and a Construction Permit issued before any of these drilling activities can proceed. 15A NCAC 02C .0304 requires Environmental Health staff to conduct a field investigation to evaluate the property before issuing any permit. The level of time and effort required to perform the site evaluation for the above repair activities is no different than for a new construction permits. It is possible that a permit would be denied because of existing site conditions or inability to meet set back requirements. This is why in the current fee schedule we do not differentiate between these repair activities and placement of a new well.
